How Gaming and Social Media Are Designed to Keep Teenagers Hooked

An evening presentation for gamers, parents, teachers and professionals.

All teenagers play video games regularly. It is critical to ensure they have a healthy and productive relationship with gaming, social media and technology. Cam's presentation will address how we understand this issue, how to recognize when gaming has become a serious problem, and action-focused strategies for addressing it.

Date: January 22, 2019

Time: 7pm—9pm

Location: Taylor Institute for Teaching and Learning, The University of Calgary
