

Developing Skills + Building Confidence

EmploymentWorks offers employment preparedness training and experiential learning through hands-on or simulated job sampling experiences to autistic youth and adults, and persons with disabilities. The program is designed for individuals who want to enter or return to the workforce, and who are willing to develop and practice the essential skills needed to support employment success.

EmploymentWorks In-Person

EW In-Person is as the name suggests, an in-person employment preparedness training program designed for autistics and persons with disabilities who want to practice and develop the skills necessary to prepare for, obtain, and maintain employment. It includes both classroom training and hands-on experience through job sampling in real workplace settings. It also offers employers experience integrating a diverse workforce, and provides mentors with an opportunity to share their employment journeys with participants.

EmploymentWorks Instructor-Led Online

EW Instructor-Led Online is a group-based online program that supports safe, uninterrupted access to employment preparedness training during the pandemic. The program includes 60 hours of guided learning, application and practice focused on social, communication, and job skills development. Career exploration and experiential learning occurs in simulated workplace environments using interactive job simulations, custom designed job previews, scenario-based learning videos and curated resources.

EmploymentWorks Self-Paced eLearning

EW Self-Paced is an exciting new learner-paced online course designed to make valuable skill development and employment preparedness training highly accessible to autistics and persons with disabilities. This engaging and interactive eLearning course enables individuals to complete the program on their own time and schedule, and effectively eliminates barriers to learning due to geographic location, access to transportation, and fixed program dates.
